

It is a mistake to raise the current limit of 35% ownership up to 45%. The public airways should remain representative of the public, providing diverse points of view. A way to encourage that diversity is to keep one media company from owning almost 50% of all media outlets in a given market.

Additionally, the public who is served by the FCC should be allowed an opportunity to provide comments on the actual wording of the newly proposed rule. This wording, to my knowledge, has not been revealed.
